Dear ASAC Strzok:

This letter responds to Department of Justice (DOJ) requests to the White House Counsel's Office (WHCO) for classification review of e-mails and attachments conveyed on discs dated October 8, 2015, and January 8, 2016. We reviewed these sets of documents following the same protocol agreed to by the WHCO and DOJ and used to review previous sets. Please see below for a summary of the results of our review:

1. October 8, 2015 set – 693 documents, comprised of 613 e-mails and 80 attachments.
 - Previously Reviewed for Classification and Posted. 667 of the 693 total e-mails and attachments were previously reviewed for classification as part of the State Department's FOIA review process and posted on State's FOIA website. The attached tracker reflects the classification of these documents as determined in the State process.
 - Previously Reviewed for Classification but Appear not to have been Posted. 8 of the 693 total e-mails and attachments were circulated as part of the State FOIA process, including for classification review. As to these documents, we recommend that you consult the State Department for the results of its review process.
 - May Require Classification Review. 18 of the 693 total e-mails and attachments do not appear to have been reviewed as part of the State FOIA process. As to these documents, we believe that the State Department is the appropriate agency to conduct a classification review.
2. January 8, 2016 set – One e-mail that was reviewed for classification as part of the State Department's FOIA review process.

With this response – following our March 14 and 16 responses – we believe we have now answered all of DOJ's requests to date for classification review. (We understand that we will be receiving additional documents for review today.) Please let us know if you have a different understanding or if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Nicholas McQuaid

Dear ASAC Strzok:

This responds to your request dated April 4, 2016 to White House Counsel Neil Eggleston to review five e-mails for classification. We received the e-mails on April 11, 2016. As reflected in the attached chart, based on our review of the State Department FOIA website, all five may require classification review. We believe that the State Department is the appropriate agency to conduct those reviews. For your information, it appears that you had previously referred three of the e-mails to us for classification review: item numbers 17138 and 19169 were referred to us on Jan. 14. Item number 4569 appears identical to item number 17359, which was also referred to us on Jan. 14.

With this response – following our March 14, March 16, and April 11 responses – we believe we have now answered all of DOJ's requests for classification review. Please let us know if you have a different understanding or if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Nicholas McQuaid

Dear ASAC Strzok:

This responds to the request to the Office of the White House Counsel to review 24 e-mail chains for classification. The e-mail chains were provided by disc on May 12, 2016.

As reflected on the chart enclosed with this letter, our review of the e-mail chains determined the following:

- 13 of the 24 e-mail chains were reviewed for classification as part of the State Department FOIA review process and posted. As noted and explained further on the chart, two of the 13 chains appear to be identical to chains posted on the State Department FOIA website, but have time stamps four hours apart. We have enclosed copies of these two e-mails as posted on the State Department website for your convenience.
- One of the 24 e-mail chains was previously reviewed for classification in substance. A forwarded e-mail at the top of the e-mail chain does not appear to have been reviewed for classification and posted as part of the State Department's FOIA review process. To the extent you determine the chain requires further review for classification, we recommend that you refer the chain to the State Department.
- Ten of the 24 e-mail chains may require classification review as they do not appear to have been reviewed for classification and posted as part of the State Department's FOIA review process. As indicated on the enclosed chart, we recommend referring these e-mail chains to the State Department.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Dear Chief Strzok:

This letter responds to a request to the White House Counsel, dated June 8, 2016, for review of three e-mail chains for classification. We reviewed this set of documents following the same protocol agreed to by my office and the Department of Justice to review previous sets—in March, April, and May. As reflected on the chart enclosed with this letter, our review of these three e-mail chains determined the following:

- Item # 70590: This e-mail chain was previously reviewed for classification as part of the State Department FOIA review process and posted.
- Item # 70741: But for what appears to be a non-substantive e-mail at the top of the e-mail chain, this document was previously reviewed for classification as part of the State FOIA process and posted. Recommendation: to the extent further classification review is sought, refer to State.
- Item # 71279: This e-mail chain may require classification review as it does not appear to have been reviewed as part of the State FOIA process. Recommendation: refer to State.

With this response, we have satisfied all FBI requests to date. Please let us know if you have a different understanding or if you have any questions.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 14, 2016

Peter P. Strzok
Assistant Special Agent in Charge
Washington Field Office

Dear ASAC Strzok:

On Oct. 8, 2015, Jan. 8, 2016, Jan. 14, 2016, and March 9, 2016, the Department of Justice (DOJ) referred tranches of e-mails to the White House Counsel's Office (WHCO) for classification review. Consistent with discussions between the DOJ and WHCO, the WHCO's approach to these requests has been to set aside any e-mails determined to have already been reviewed for classification as part of the Department of State's review of former Secretary of State Clinton's e-mails for public release in Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) litigation. For those e-mails, State and the Intelligence Community have already conducted a review for classification, and the e-mails as posted on the State Department's FOIA website reflect their determinations.

The WHCO was asked to prioritize its review of 49 e-mail chains the DOJ referred to the WHCO on January 14. Enclosed with this cover letter is the tracker the DOJ provided for purposes of responding to the requests. It reflects the following breakdown as to the 49 e-mail chains:

- 11 of the 49 e-mail chains were reviewed for classification as part of the State Department's FOIA review and produced by the State Department. We have identified these e-mail chains on the chart as PREVIOUSLY REVIEWED FOR CLASSIFICATION. The chart reflects the classification of these e-mail chains as determined in the State process.
- 12 of the 49 e-mail chains were reviewed for classification in substance as part of the State Department's FOIA review and produced by the State Department. For example, this set includes e-mails where a non-substantive e-mail at the top of a chain (e.g., "pls print") has not been reviewed in the State process, but all of the substantive portions have been. We have identified these e-mails on the chart as PREVIOUSLY REVIEWED FOR CLASSIFICATION (IN SUBSTANCE). The chart reflects the classification of the substantive portions of these e-mail chains as determined in the State process. To the extent you determine these e-mail chains require further review for classification, we recommend that you refer them to the State Department.

- 26 of the 49 e-mail chains do not appear to have been reviewed as part of the State FOIA process. We have identified these e-mail chains as MAY REQUIRE CLASSIFICATION REVIEW. As to these e-mail chains, we believe that the State Department is the appropriate agency to conduct a classification review.

We are in the process of completing our review of the large tranche referred to us on Oct. 8. We have also begun reviewing the e-mails referred to us on March 9.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

WASHINGTON

March 18, 2016

Peter P. Strzok
Assistant Special Agent in Charge
Washington Field Office

Dear ASAC Strzok:

This is in response to the request the Department of Justice transmitted to the White House Counsel's Office on March 9, 2016 to review four e-mail chains for classification. As indicated in the attached tracker, one of the e-mail chains was previously reviewed for classification and produced as part of the Department of State's review of former Secretary of State Clinton's e-mails. (The classification indicated on the tracker reflects the determination of the State Department's review process.) The attachment to this e-mail chain, however, does not appear to have been reviewed for classification as part of the Department of State's review. Moreover, it does not appear that the other three e-mail chains or their attachments were reviewed as part of the State Department's process. As to these three e-mail chains and as to all of the attachments, we believe that the State Department is the appropriate agency to conduct a classification review.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Nicholas McQuaid
